

The Mog Chronicle

The Mog Chronicle visits West Norwood food bank

Have you ever wondered what happens to the tins of food donated by kind families from JKPS?

Well some of it is sent to West Norwood and Brixton food bank.

A food bank is a place where people who are struggling to afford nutritious food can go and collect food for free.

The cub reporters meet Patrick at the church

Patrick shows the newshounds the dried goods and long-life selection

At the end of last term, the Mog Chronicle team and Mr Rick ("Let It Go!") took the 201 bus to Streatham Hill where the food bank is located. We were given a guided tour by Patrick who showed us around.

Did you know?

- The food is weighed not counted when it arrives.
- 100 people work at the food bank over 5 days
- 300 kg of food is donated every week
- that rises to 750kg at Christmas!
- more and more people are asking for help.

some of your donations could be here!

MARCUS RASHFORD

The children decided to visit the foodbank after they spent time researching Marcus Rashford, who is of course the namesake of one of our Year 2 classes. Lula interviewed Miss Olivia to learn more about him

Lula: Why is the class named after Marcus Rashford?

M.O.: It's because of the good work he has done. It's not just people in history who have done important things. He is someone who is working really hard right now.

Lula: What is the most important thing he has done?

M.O.: He is using his power and influence as a footballer to show that some children are going home hungry every day, and that is not acceptable. I don't know if people in government have thought much about that.

Lula: What do you like about Marcus Rashford?

M.O.: I like the fact that he is using his fame to help people. He is now showing off his money. I think this is the best thing we can do when we have influence.

More weird and wonderful facts from Calvin and Jakob

Crooked forest

This weird looking wood is located in Przemysłowa , Nowe Czarnewo, Poland and were planted in around 1930. this grove of 400 pines are near a small town of Gryfino in west Pomerania, Poland. scientists were questioning for a long time why this forest is actually crooked and they actually still do not know . However, there are some theories. The main theory is that the trees were buried under a severe snowstorm which altered their normal growth. Others have said that the trees are affected by a local gravitational pull.

Volcano snail

This fire snail actually lives under water in the Indian Ocean in magma hatchets. Surprisingly, it doesn't really eat anything. It only relies on energy produced from bacteria it hosts in a large gland. And as if there weren't enough surprises on this snail, it's shell is actually made out of metal!

Blood rain

Although, it's name sounds traumatising, it is a has been published in the Spanish Royal Society of Natural History Journal that in the meantime, there's no cause for panic if you're caught in a blood rain shower. It is non-toxic and is often used as a food source for salmon and trout to give them a more pinkish hue. It's understood that blood rain occurs when red colored dust or particles get mixed with rain, giving it a red appearance as it falls. If you want to find out more, then check out these videos!!!

Look no further. Evie Galbraith reports on "those parties"

What is a vote of no confidence? It is when the members of the party in power no longer agree with their leader (the Prime Minister), so members of their party send in letters saying they are no longer happy with the PM and explain why. When it gets to 54 letters a vote of no confidence is held. All the party gather together to vote for whether they want the PM (Boris Johnson) to stay in power.

Why did this all happen? This all occurred because of Partygate. You might be wondering what that is. It is what people are calling the parties Boris Johnson held during lockdown. You may say, "but what is wrong with a party?" But people are angry because they did this while people were separated from their loved ones and not able to say their goodbyes. People are also unhappy that he kept denying all this.

Stranger Things comes to JKPS

Is it a ghost? Is it a stowaway hamster? Our mini newshounds discovered the "haunted" ceiling tile on the first floor corridor. Every now and then it mysteriously moves. What could possibly be the explanation?

Lula: Will you be one of the children stolen by the government hiding in there?

Evie: There is a monster living under the second floor

Elsa: It's a crazy, drunk man trying to steal children to work for a secret agency

Yolanda: There's a Flareon and a Silveon and they're upside down dancing to music

Ayden: It's just a draft running through the ceiling that every now and then blows the tile up.

Hold on, is that Kate Bush up there?

RABBIT CITY

By Calvin

Once upon a time there was a rabbit family who lived in rabbit city, which was underground. Marbel who was a spoiled little rabbit, was the son of Lala who was the chieftain of Cugdy which was one of the many of the rabbit cities in the whole 5 realms. On the other hand was his sister a great fighter, crafter and who would never miss her classes and instead hide in a wardrobe and play on his epic games account to mainly play Fortnite. Each city had a different special item Cugdy had a gun which would send rays of high pressure lava however it can sometimes rebound and will instantly kill.

“son, daughter take the real one and leave using the vent go. Go before they catch you. They dashed to the vent and exited. Outside in the real world not underground overground. It was chilly very chilly.
